Lent

A Message from Pastor Mike...

In my second year of seminary I served as one of four chaplain's assistants. Each of us was responsible for one of the four weekly chapel services. Each service had a different emphasis and I was assigned Friday, the Eucharist service. My responsibility was to schedule a preacher and communion celebrant, provide the liturgy, and prepare the elements and worship space. The person who preceded me in that position passed on a recipe for "non-crumbling eucharistic bread." It was not required that that bread be used but it is a pretty good recipe, so I took on the personal discipline of baking a loaf of communion bread every Thursday night. It felt good knowing that every week something I made was eaten by the seminary community; students, faculty and staff.

Through that immersive experience – planning, writing, baking, setting the table – I grew into what I think of as a Eucharistic theology. I believe the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper is perhaps the single most profound action we take as a worshipping community. And it's why I have long advocated for frequent and varied celebrations of the sacrament.

And I'm on firm Presbyterian ground with that. In fact, when the Directory for Worship in our Book of Order was recently revised, the old suggestion that "It is appropriate to celebrate the Lord's Supper as often as each Lord's Day" became "The Lord's Supper shall be celebrated as a regular part of the Service for the Lord's Day..." (W-3.0409, emphasis mine). In other words, the BOO says we should have communion every Sunday! It then goes on to say, "When local circumstances call for the Lord's Supper to be celebrated less frequently, the session may approve other schedules for celebration, in no case less than quarterly."

In practice, very few PC(USA) churches have weekly communion. But I did serve a church that gradually increased its frequency to where we celebrated the sacrament on the first Sunday of the month, plus weekly during Advent and Lent (during mid-week special services), plus most of the times the cup symbol appears on the Presbyterian Planning calendar indicating a holy-day for which communion is appropriate (Christ the King, Christmas Eve/Day, Baptism of the Lord, Transfiguration, Ash Wednesday, Maundy Thursday, Easter Sunday, Pentecost, Trinity Sunday, World Communion Sunday, and Christ the King Sunday).

Each of those occasions offers a different perspective on the sacrament. For instance, on Ash Wednesday the bread and juice can be a powerful contrast to the ashes placing mortality and death in close proximity and tension with eternal life and resurrection.

Maundy Thursday Communion is most definitely a memorial meal remembering Christ's last supper with his friends and disciples. But on Easter it becomes a resurrection feast, a true celebration of new life.

What this variety helps us understand is that the Lord's Supper is not just one thing; it is "an abundant feast of theological meaning" (W-3.0409). There are at least seven scripturally rooted themes that describe what Christians experience in Communion:

- It is a meal of thanksgiving ("Eucharist" means "thanksgiving"); "Jesus gave thanks" (Mark 14:22).
- The Apostle Paul saw it as a sign of unity among the communicants (1 Cor. 10:16-17).
- The Lord's Supper commemorates the historical; Jesus said, "Do this in remembrance of me." (Luke 22:19, 1 Cor. 11:24-25). We remember the whole of Jesus's life, not only his "last supper."
- The Roman Catholic church in particular, but also Protestants, remember Christ's obedient sacrifice as they celebrate the Eucharist (see Hebrews where Jesus is both high priest and offering).
- We experience in Communion Christ's real presence; "The bread which I will give is my own flesh" (John 6:51).
- We might see the Lord's Supper as an act of the Holy Spirit who binds us together with each other and with Christ.

•Communion is an eschatological event, a "foretaste of the heavenly banquet."

Any one of those themes offers additional avenues of understanding and practice. Presbyterians are not restricted or bound by any single theology or way of celebrating Communion, no single mood or tone. In fact, it should be incumbent upon us, through liturgy, song and movement to offer opportunities to experience the Lord's Supper in all its variety.

One of the significant ways we embody the variety of Eucharistic understandings is in how we receive the elements. For just as no one liturgy or prayer or theological doctrine can encompass the whole of the Lord's Supper, neither can one way of serving and receiving it. So sometimes we receive the elements in our seats and serve each other. This emphasizes the horizontal aspect of communion; in serving our neighbor with the words like, "This is the body of Christ broken for you," and "This is the blood of Christ shed for you," we establish deeper relationships within our covenant community (see the second theme above). The risk of being served in our seats is that communion becomes a passive event requiring no effort on the part of the communicant. And unless we actively serve our neighbor it becomes insular, no longer a real communion.

When we come forward to receive communion, while we lose the opportunity to serve our neighbor, we gain the opportunity to express our real desire for the sacrament. Leaving our seats shows that we do, in fact, accept the invitation to the table and that we are willing to come and receive the gift Christ offers. We become active participants rather than passive recipients. Coming forward also emphasizes our vertical relationship with God and Christ; as we approach the table we come closer to the place where we proclaim the real presence of Christ is found.

On Maundy Thursday we highlight the fact that the Lord's Supper is rooted in real table fellowship. When Jesus instituted the sacrament he used real food found at a real meal and did so at a real table. And by sitting around tables and serving each other we get as close as we can to experiencing the kind of sharing that was so much a part of the early church. One of the things lost by our tradition of small pieces of bread and tiny cups of juice served from specially designed trays is the sense that at the heart of Lord's Supper is a real meal.

Two stories come to mind about profound Lord's Supper experiences. One was when I visited a man in hospice named Richard Meese. The end of his life was near and he had been suffering from dementia. For most of our visit he was only vaguely responsive. But I had my communion set with me and with his wife's permission I set out the elements and began a brief communion prayer. When I got to the Lord's Prayer, suddenly we heard Dick's voice – he was saying the prayer with surprising strength. And he was clearly attentive to the Words of Institution. Then, despite having not eaten for days, he ate a very small piece of bread and took a sip of juice. And then, as quickly as he arrived, he departed to that place where his mind and soul were resting before joining the eternal. I'd like to believe that for Dick the meal really was a foretaste of the heavenly banquet that just a day or so later surely enjoyed in the life to come.

My other story is about our wedding. Mary Louise and I had communion as part of our service and the night before I baked a loaf of non-crumbling Eucharistic bread. We were not yet ordained and so could not do the liturgy ourselves. But we were able to serve and so our first act as wife and husband (aside from kissing) was to serve our family and friends the Lord's Supper. We hope that that meal too was a kind of foretaste of a marriage grounded in the holy and blessed by those we love. It was certainly a wonderful and genuine celebration; reverent but definitely not solemn.

My hope for us as a worshipping community is that we can together explore not just the variety of the Lord's Supper – although it's a perfect place to start – but also the wide variety of worship and experience that might open us ever more fully to our God of limitless possibility.

Grace and peace,

Spring
Swiss Steak Dinner
Sat., April 22, 2023

This dinner is a big deal for our church and the community--people are already asking about it--but it takes all of us and then some to pull it off and be a successful source of Mission funding.

In going through our Memory Book from the 175th Anniversary, it said the first Swiss steak dinner was fall of 1967! So we have a reputation and a legacy to uphold/carry forward. So please mark your calendars! (At this point it will be like the November one: take out drive thru, 4:30 -6:30 p.m., $13 regular and $8 small and we will need cookies enough for 400+ meals).

Preschool News

Winter 2023 Preschool Newsletter

During the month of December, the preschoolers collected a total of 359 personal hygiene items (toothpaste, toothbrushes, soap, etc.) for the Harborcreek Food Pantry families. This was done in place of a student Christmas gift exchange! What a great job!

During the month of January, our preschool families brought in a total of 139 winter hats, gloves, mittens, scarves, etc., which were distributed to several local charities, who were very thankful to receive these needed donations.

January and February brought a flurry of various school activities involving letters "K" through "Q." The preschoolers enjoyed an "Inside Winter Fun Day" in January complete with hot cocoa and marshmallows; enjoyed a "Valentine's Day" celebration (complete with valentine cards and candy treats!) in February; and participated in a "Pancake & Pajama Day" also in February with everyone in their favorite pajamas eating delicious pancakes to celebrate "Pp" week! And, of course, we used all of our 5 senses while enjoying some wonderful popcorn on "Popcorn Day!" Who says "learning" isn't "FUN"!!

We had several guest speakers visit the preschool recently. State Trooper Hacke presented a wonderful and informative "Safety" program; and the Barber Center's "Kids On the Block" puppet show delighted all the children.

The preschoolers created beautiful handmade valentines for WCTL-FM's "Healing Hearts Valentine's Day Project!" the radio station then distributed the cards to the residents of local nursing homes and senior living facilities. We were very excited to be a part of such a worthwhile community project!

The boys and girls are now busy practicing their addresses and phone numbers, along with number, letter, and letter sound recognition skills, rhyming skills, and even some Kindergarten words! -- as we evaluate for our second Progress Report being distributed at the end of February.

As you can see, we are always very busy at Preschool! Until next time, take care and stay warm!

Church News and Events

Dear Church Family,

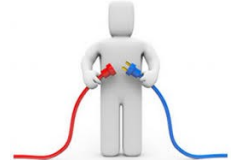

We would like to express our deepest gratitude for your support during Kevin's mother's recent illness and passing. Your prayers, cards, and messages helped sustain us through this difficult time. Pat was often in attendance with us during her visits to Erie, especially at Easter, Thanksgiving, and Christmas, and she enjoyed the music and community of First Presbyterian Church. We know this is a special place and we appreciate and feel your love.

With deepest appreciation,

Kevin, Patty, and Jacob Graff

2023 Per Capita

As part of a connectional church system, we contribute $33 per member to help support the Lake Erie Presbytery, Synod of the Trinity and the Biennial General Assembly. We ask members of the congregation to help with this obligation by covering their part of the apportionment by the end of March. There is a special blue envelope in your offering box or you can just write "per capita" on a generic envelope (or memo line of your check). Offering envelope boxes are available at the top of the stairs near the offices.

We hope to finalize our stewardship obligation by end of March.

Thanks, Stewardship and Financial Committee

LOVE PACKAGES PROJECT

A huge thank you to those who donated Bibles, Christian literature, dictionaries, teaching materials, etc. to support a project called Love Packages. Material collected will be used in Christian mission fields abroad to spread the Good News to folks living in remote areas of the world.

HCPC members and friends donated 312 publications (in only two weeks time) that are part of the over 2,000 pounds collected by participating churches of Lake Erie Presbytery. The items collected will be shipped in the near future and eventually be in the hands of people who want to desperately to learn about our Lord and Savior.

Kathy Johnston Fish who is moderator of the Cochranon Presbyterian Church Women's Association and who led this project in our Presbytery has indicated that there might be a second drive for materials in the summer so stay tuned for further information.

On behalf of the Mission Committee, Bless You,
Sue Kellerman
