On August 11, 2022, I took my first picture of an Erie sunset from our room at the Bayfront Hampton Inn. Mary Louise and I had arrived earlier in the day and met the pastor nominating committee at the Tom Ridge Environmental Center. At the center we saw a movie describing the four seasons on the Peninsula, complete with ice dunes, a weather phenomenon we had never heard of. Those few days last August – our first-ever visit to Erie despite having driven by many times on our way to Canada from Pittsburgh – were pivotal for us. We knew that accepting the call to Emmanuel and Harborcreek Churches would, in many ways, be an even more significant change than the one ten years prior when we left Pittsburgh for Nashville. But there were also significant and good reasons to take the leap.

For one thing, I've learned in my 20-plus years of ministry, and especially in my "journeyman" decade in Tennessee, that I'm happiest in smaller churches and there were good signs from the PNC and others I talked to that I would be happy at HPC and EPC. And both Mary Louise and I immediately recognized just how beautiful Erie and the surrounding area is. Plus, we still had all our winter clothes, boots and jackets from our previous time in Pennsylvania. We also both felt a sense of homecoming. In Nashville both Mary Louise and I were told, "You really talk about Pittsburgh a lot." And we had to admit that we really did love western Pennsylvania; the thought of coming back to a place where we already had friends and family was appealing. And as if to affirm that homecoming, the PA DMV gave us our old driver's license numbers back!

Now the PNC can confirm that I did not say "yes" until Mary Louise and I were on the way back to Nashville after that August visit. We still needed to talk it all through and a nine-hour car ride was the perfect time to do it (it actually only took about two hours on the road to make the call).

Mary Louise and I have been on quite a journey together since we met in 1998. We've had five addresses in three states; we've purchased three homes; and between us we've served 11 congregations as full-time or shared pastor, including one where I was her associate. Plus, we've owned seven cars, had accounts at six or seven different banks, and endured a couple of serious health events.

We were recently sitting around talking about our newest home – what repairs or updates might be necessary – and the conversation drifted toward how our life together has been marked by periods of stability punctuated by dramatic change, change in location, ministry setting, family (all four of our parents died while we've been together, but we've also welcomed a daughter-in-law and two grandchildren) and more. And each change has been marked by both excitement at the new possibilities and a sense of loss for what we'd be leaving behind. Sometimes the loss is minor and easily absorbed – like when I traded my beloved Ford Ranger pickup for a Ford Fusion. Other times the loss stays with you – like when I knew it was time to move on from a call but still felt bonded to the people and their ministry.

We also reflected on how the lives of churches are also marked by periods of stability and then change. Often in churches the most significant change is in the pastor and it's an obvious one. I mean, it wasn't like I appeared gradually; one day I wasn't here, the next day I was. Other changes are less perceptible, like a decline in membership or attendance, at least until it becomes too obvious to ignore. But just because we're not perceiving those losses at a conscious level doesn't mean that we aren't feeling them deeply and over time. And it's quite possible that the long imperceptibility of those kinds of changes makes their realization all the more sorrowful.

I think it also makes those losses harder to address, harder to instigate the changes to attitude or practice necessary to forestall or reverse them. Perhaps the experiences of change that Mary Louise and I have navigated together, not to mention the decisions we made before we met – to leave our homes and jobs and move across the country for seminary – have taught us that, while change is often difficult and even unwelcome, it can also bring new joys and possibilities.

We were both confident that coming to Erie was absolutely the right thing for us. And Erie continues to reveal new and often unexpected joys. We saw a bumper sticker that said "It's OK to Love Erie" and we agree! That doesn't mean that it's not OK to miss Nashville or Pittsburgh. Both can be true.

We can run into problems when the feelings of sorrow, loss, frustration or anger that come with change override our acceptance that change is necessary, even inevitable. It does neither us nor the communities we are parts of no good when preserving the status quo becomes more important than the long-term survival and vitality of our lives, families, churches and communities.

September this year presents us with a pretty big change, the worship time swap. And I know that not everyone at both churches is super-excited about it. But it's what the churches agreed to when you decided to share a pastor – which itself is a big change! And to be sure, it will be challenging – for me as well as you. I'm confident, though, that we'll figure it out and adjust. But especially if you are feeling less than enthusiastic, or you are worried, or you are even angry, I invite you to give yourself over to it. Before you make a list of things that will be lost or difficult, perhaps you could imagine new possibilities. What new things might we do? What opportunities might we have? How might this worship time change even open us to new visions of how God is at work in our churches? And how might the admittedly forced experience of change make us more comfortable with other things we might try as we do our best to participate in the revelation of God's kingdom for all people?

It doesn't seem real that it's been a year since I captured a beautiful photo of smiling Mary Louise sitting near Bicentennial Tower with the sun setting behind her. So much has happened for us in the last year. And we both feel like there's so much more to discover; that's kind of how our life together has been.

And I look forward to the continued journey of discovery I am on with you in our partnership in this most beautiful place with our most wonderful God.

In shared ministry,

Mike

MISSION COMMITTEE NEWS

1. Our first time back inside the Upper Room to serve dinner was a huge success. Pizza, watermelon and cookies were served and enjoyed by about 50 people. Thank you all who helped in any way. Our next dinner will be served October 29, 2023. Please watch for upcoming details. Sally Wakely and her knitting crew will have many scarves to take up to them. Thank you, Sally, and all your happy knitters.
2. The Committee has decided to support a project for The Auxiliary at Elmwood Gardens. We will keep you posted as to which project we will be supporting.
3. Looking forward... we will once again be receiving the Peace and Global Witness Offering on October 1. Please watch for more information
4. We would like to return to participation in the Erie County Crop Walk being held on September 24 at Presque Isle. Last year the Erie County Walk was the 12 th largest money maker in the nation and number one in Pennsylvania. 25% of the money collected stays in Erie County to provide for local food pantries to fight hunger in our own area. We need someone to say they will organize the walkers. A sign-up sheet will be posted on the back Bulletin Board for a Chair and walkers. We would love to have a large team of walkers. As there are some of us unable to walk, we ask that you financially support those who do. Hope to have great success!

THANK YOU ALL!

Mission Committee

We are still receiving donations for special mission projects. This is an easy way to make a big difference in the lives of people in our community and around the world! Just collect and drop off at church.

♥ Aluminum Cans for the Dick Smith Fund to benefit community members with emergency needs.

♥ Travel Sized Personal Care Products to be given to the homeless at The Upper Room.

♥ Cancelled Stamps The person we were sending our cancelled stamps to is not doing that any longer, so we have researched and changed the recipients of our cancelled stamp ministry. We will have more information on who that is in the next newsletter.

♥ Used Greeting Cards to be sent to be sent to St Jude's Ranch for them to repurpose and sell in their gift shop and on their website. Please do not cut cards or change cards in anyway. They need them whole for them to be transformed.

Mark your calendars:

All Saints Sunday and Memorial Sunday

We will be celebrating All Saints Sunday and Memorial Sunday on October 29, 2023. Please have all memorial information to the church office no later than Sunday, October 22.

Media Ministry

We are asking for volunteers for the media ministry. Jeremy Stewart, Bill Nesgoda, and Jared Mosier have been bringing the streaming program to you for over 3 years now every Sunday. Occasionally we get to have a Sunday off but those are rare. We would love to be able to spend time to join our families during the worship services also.

We would like to offer a training session on a day other than Sunday in the near future, if someone or many people are interested. We would like to be able to show and give experience to people that may be interested in helping out without the pressure of learning during Sunday Worship Service.

Some things are done at home like the slide creation (using Canva.com), hymn slides (using digitalsongsandhymns.com and PowerPoint), Scripture verses (using commonenglishbible.com and Canva.com). We will show you what it takes to create those. If you are interested in controlling the sound during the church service or running the streaming computer and cameras, we would love to show you and train you on those processes.

If you would have any interest, please, please, please let me know at:

media.ministry@hcpresbyterian.org and we will set up a training session. Thanks

Jared Mosier
